

Danille (Dani) Roussel; Board certified Anesthesiologist and Professor (Clinical) in the Department of Anesthesiology Spencer Fox Eccles School of Medicine; Contact: danielle.roussel@hsc.utah.edu

Danielle Roussel, MD is a board certified anesthesiologist and Professor (Clinical) in the Department of Anesthesiology. She provides anesthesia for patients undergoing a variety of surgical procedures and has specialized interest in obstetric and neurosurgical anesthesia. Dr. Roussel's academic interests are in undergraduate medical education and particularly clinical reasoning and assessment. She currently serves as the Assistant Dean for Medical Student Assessment where the guiding mission of the assessment program is to ensure trustworthy assessment judgments that motivate student learning, inform advancement in training, and protect patients and the public. Dr. Roussel has previously served as Assistant Dean for Clinical Curriculum, Course Director for the pre-clerkship cardiovascular/pulmonary/renal unit, and Course Director for the pre-clerkship Pharmacology courses. She is highly engaged in undergraduate medical education at the national level and has recently served as the President for the Directors of Clinical Skills Education, co-chair of the WHY Taskforce for the GEA CLASS Project, and member of the AAMC/ACGME/AACOP Foundational Competencies working group. Dr. Roussel's scholarly work centers on clinical skills curricula and medical student assessment and her collaborators include investigators both from within the institution and across the country.

Dani previously served as the DOCS Program Planning Chair and was the 2022-2023 President. She also remains active with membership and technology initiatives.

